England		Minister for England: "who will sit under the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government, and will work with the Secretaries of State for Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland."	English-only stage in legislation: "so English MPs can have a separate say on laws that only affect England."
	Mayors: "For combined authorities that are based around our great cities, we will continue to support the adoption of elected mayors, but we will not support them for the rural counties."	Mayors: "Labour will be guided by public opinion when determining whether to include directly elected mayors in future devolution deals."	Mayors: "All areas should however have access to the same opportunities and mayoral authorities should not be ranked higher in terms of the powers with which they can be granted."
		Regions: "We will restore regional offices to increase contact between central and local government on the ground."	Regions: Will enable "greater devolution of powers from Westminster to councils or groups of councils"

Scotland	Indyref2: “In order for a referendum to be fair, legal and decisive, it cannot take place until the Brexit process has played out and it should not take place unless there is public consent for it to happen.”	Indyref2: “Labour opposes a second Scottish independence referendum. It is unwanted and unnecessary.”	Indyref2: “We will oppose a second independence referendum and oppose independence.”		Indyref2: The General Election is not about independence but “a vote for the SNP will reinforce the right of the Scottish Parliament to decide when a referendum should happen.”
					Devolution settlement: Seek power over immigration, power to conclude international agreements, and powers which would enable Scotland to remain in the European Single Market membership. Also call for full control over social security benefits and full devolution of employment and employability policy.

Wales		Devolution settlement: "We will bring forward legislation to make the devolution settlement more sustainable as set out by the Welsh Labour government in its Alternative Wales Bill, including the devolution of policing."	Devolution settlement: Will deliver "proper home rule" for Wales. "We will raise the status of the National Assembly to become a Welsh Parliament." "We will drastically reduce the number of reserved subjects and prevent Westminster from being able to override Wales on devolved matters."	Devolution settlement: Want more powers, "all future free trade deals, for instance, must be endorsed by the National Assembly for Wales." Also power to set rates of tax including: Corporation Tax, Air Passenger Duty, and VAT.
Northern Ireland	Devolved powers: "We remain committed to the devolution of Corporation Tax powers subject to the executive"

		Northern Ireland – Republic of Ireland border: “Labour will ensure there is no return to a hard border between Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland.”	Northern Ireland – Republic of Ireland border: “Maintain the common travel area and freedom of movement.”
Brexit	Devolved competences: “no decision-making that has been devolved will be taken back to Westminster. Indeed, we envisage that the powers of the devolved administrations will increase as we leave the EU.”	Devolved competences: “We will introduce a ‘presumption of devolution’ where devolved powers transferred from the EU will go straight to the relevant region or nation.”	Devolved competences: “We will work with devolved parliaments and assemblies to allocate to them any powers repatriated as a result of Brexit in their areas of responsibility.”		Devolved competences: Expect full powers over repatriated powers that “currently sit within the competences of the Scottish Parliament, like agriculture, fisheries and environmental protection.”
